CRAZY SIMPLE YOUTUBE

BY AARON CUHA

01 SECTION
PART 1: YOUR NUMBERS

- What is your average client or transaction value? $_____
- If one YouTube video generates just ONE client per year, what is that video worth? $_____
- If that video keeps working for five years (and that's conservative), what is the lifetime value? $_____
- If creating that video takes three hours, what is your "YouTube Hourly Rate"? $_____ per hour

02 SECTION
PART 2: THE ANCHOR

Write your YouTube Hourly Rate on a sticky note and put it somewhere you'll see it every single day.

> That number is your anchor when creating content feels hard, when you don't want to hit record, when imposter syndrome creeps in. Look at the number. Then press record anyway.

For each video, log:

VIDEO	CTR %	AVD %	LENGTH (MIN)	WATCH TIME...
1
2
3
4
5
AVG

02 SECTION
PART 2: SCORE YOURSELF

- Avg CTR > 5% = winning. CTR < 4% = thumbnails/titles bottleneck.
- Avg AVD > 45% = winning. AVD < 35% = hooks/pacing bottleneck.
- Avg length < 8 min = leaving watch time on the table. Length > 15 min with solid retention = sweet spot.

My current bottleneck (circle one):

- ☐ CTR (people aren't clicking) → fix thumbnails and titles
- ☐ AVD (people click but leave early) → fix hooks and structure
- ☐

Length (great retention but videos too short) → make longer videos
